Collector's Report,

FOR YEAR 1883.

To the tax payers of the Town of Gilmanton: I hereby submit my annual report as Collector:

" amount collected and paid to treasurer,.....	13,127 83
I have received in abatements.....	$53 10
In above abatements there was overtax.....	13 37
Actual abatement.....	$39 73

For the fourth time I return my thanks for the prompt manner in which you have paid your taxes. You must be satisfied with the above statement, and agree that a prompt settlement of all taxes within the year is the only successful method; and the reduction of indebtedness, as shown by the Treasurer's report, is conclusive proof that, if you continue in thus well doing, you will soon have the satisfaction of seeing the town once more free from debt.

SCHOOL REPORT.

During the past year there have been twenty-eight terms of school in town, taught by twenty different teachers, two males and eighteen females. Whole number of different scholars attending school during the year, 318—boys, 167, girls, 151. Whole number of different scholars attending to the following studies: Reading, 286; spelling, 285; penmanship, 195; arithmetic, 226; geography, 122; grammar, 74; history, 12; composition, 26; vocal music, 27; physiology, 1; book-keeping, 17; algebra, 17; drawing, 5; natural philosophy, 2. Whole number of weeks taught by male teachers, 37; female teachers, 224. Average wages of male teachers per month, including board, $22.33; female teachers, $18.54.

DISTRICT No. 1.

Prudential Committee, Geo. W. Parsons. Summer term of seven weeks, taught by Miss Nettie F. Griffin. This teacher has had but little experience. Her work was well and conscientiously done. The scholars were interested in their studies; the teacher, in scholars and their studies. A profitable term to all concerned. Whole number of scholars, 16; average number, 14. Wages of teacher per month, $15.

Second term of eight weeks, taught by Miss Emma F. Clarke. The school this term was large and well advanced. Reading received more attention than is customary in district schools. The "blanks" of the class in book-keeping were models of neatness and accuracy. From the primer to the most advanced class the answers were correct and wonderfully prompt; hardly an incorrect statement on any point during the examination. The term was complete in all its parts. Whole number of scholars, 19; average attendance, 18. Wages of teacher per month, $23.

DISTRICT No. 2.

Prudential committee, Joshua Colby. One term of twelve weeks, taught by Miss Carrie M. Edgerly. Miss Edgerly has taught several terms in this district, which fact shows the value of Miss Edgerly's abilities in the estimation of the district. The results of the last term prove that her abilities have not been over-rated. Her quiet and winning ways enabled her to gain absolute control over her scholars. Her comprehensive methods give her scholars clear and discriminating knowledge of their studies. The district will do well to secure her services in the future. Whole number of scholars, 16; average attendance, 15. Wages of teacher per month, $23.

DISTRICT No. 3.

Prudential Committee, A. R. Page. First term of five and second term of nine weeks, taught by Miss Charlotte J. Lewis, a graduate of Concord High School, and a teacher of experience. The methods of this teacher are of an advanced order. Patient, persevering, and untiring in her labor. She did for the school all that was possible for a teacher to do, but some failed to profit by her instruction. Whole number of scholars, 11; average attendance, 10. Wages of teacher per month, summer, $16; winter, $18.

DISTRICT No. 4.

Prudential Committee, Alvah Griffin. One term of twelve weeks, taught by Miss Nettie F. Griffin. The teacher labored hard for the welfare of the school, but experienced difficulty in governing some of the older scholars. Certain scholars seemed determined to spoil the term's work. The smaller scholars made some advancement. Whole number of scholars, 17; average attendance, 16. Wages of teacher per month, $16.

DISTRICT No. 5.

Prudential Committee, John S. Osborne. Summer term of six weeks, taught by Miss C. L. Brown. The conveniences and beautiful surroundings of this school-house are efficient aids to the scholars in acquiring their education. The teacher labored hard for the school, and her efforts were fully appreciated; the scholars labored in turn. Nothing but good results could follow. Under Miss Brown's skillful instruction, the rhetorical exercises were the finest in town. Whole number of scholars, 17; average attendance, 17. Wages of teacher per month, $17.

Second term of nine and eight-tenths weeks, taught by Mr. Frank C. Page. We find here a successful teacher. As a whole the school is well advanced and eager to improve every opportunity. Mr. Page spared no pains to make his school equal to any in town, and his efforts were successful. The scholars showed their appreciation of the teacher at the close of the term by the presentation of beautiful presents. Whole number of scholars, 25; average attendance, 22. Wages of teacher per month, $20.

DISTRICT No. 6.

Prudential Committee, Mrs. Carrie S. Jenkins. One term of thirteen weeks, taught by Mr. Frank C. Page. The teacher's first school; a pleasant term, pleasant to visitors, pleasant to scholars, pleasant to the teacher. Perfect order, with no feeling of restraint. The scholars had a clearly defined idea of the object of school, and all parties labored to carry out that idea. Mr. Page is a thorough scholar, and fitted by nature for a teacher. Whole number of scholars, 13; average attendance, 11. Wages of teacher per month, $20.

DISTRICT No. 7.

Prudential Committee, Frank D. Young. One term of eight weeks, taught by Miss Carrie M. Sargent. Good work done by both scholars and teacher. Advancement good; exactness in recitation and explanation very noticeable. The class in primary arithmetic needs especial commendation. Whole number of scholars, 13; average attendance, 12. Wages of teacher per month, $18.

DISTRICT NO. 8.

Prudential Committee, E. S. Mudgett. Summer term of six weeks, taught by Miss Minnie Price. This was the teacher's first attempt at teaching. In the matter of education she is one of the best qualified among the teachers for the year. Her explanations are clear, and her instruction is presented in an attractive form. The discipline was hardly up to the standard; otherwise the school was a good one. Whole number of scholars, 13, average number, 13. Wages of teacher per month, $8.

Winter term of ten weeks, taught by Miss M. Lizzie Whittemore. With one exception, the most experienced teacher in town. Miss Whittemore has had charge of this school several terms, in years past, and the committee showed good judgement in selecting her to take the school again. A pains-taking teacher in every respect, she aroused a great interest for work in her scholars. A quiet, interested, hard-working school. A large number of visitors were present at the close of the term, many of whom attested their appreciation of Miss Whittemore's worth, both in the past and present. Whole number of scholars, 16; average attendance, 14. Wages of teacher per month, $16.

DISTRICT NO. 9.

Prudential Committee, R. A. Knowles. Summer term of eleven weeks, taught by Miss Carrie E. Moore. This is a large school of small scholars, requiring a teacher of tact and energy to make it profitable. By reason of an inspired respect for the teacher, and an awakened interest for study, the punctuality and regularity of attendance for this term were remarkable. Under the skillful, energetic, and patient management of this teacher the term was an unusually successful one. All branches were well taught, more especially reading and grammar; and, what is of more value to children, discipline, habits of order, neatness and respect, were well exemplified, and made the foundation of the school. Whole number of scholars, 32; average attendance, 30. Wages of teacher per month, $20.

Winter term of fourteen weeks, taught by Mr. C. H. Brock.

Mr. Brock is a teacher of but little experience. Lack of discipline and want of thoroughness were very marked. Whole number of scholars, 32; average attendance, 22. Wages of teacher per month, $28.

DISTRICT No. 10.

Prudential Committee, S. E. Everleth. Summer term of eight weeks, taught by Miss Annie B. Dimick. This was the teacher's first school; had she been more regular in her attendance, and given attention to school alone, the term's result would have been more beneficial to the scholars. Whole number of scholars, 6; average attendance, 5. Wages of teacher per month, $6.

Second term of ten weeks, taught by Miss Minnie Price. A small school of small scholars, but under Miss Price's management very interesting and profitable. Order faultless; promptness and thoroughness characterized the recitations. Whole number of scholars, 8; average attendance, 8. Wages of teacher per month, $14.

DISTRICT No. 11.

Prudential Committee, Royal L. Paige. Summer term of seven weeks, taught by Miss Addie B. Parsons, a young teacher. With one exception reading and spelling are the only studies taught. Not receiving due notice of the close of the term but one visit was made. Whole number of scholars, 4; average attendance, 4. Wages of teacher per month, $16.

Fall term of six weeks, taught by Miss Lizzie M. Page, also an inexperienced teacher. Patient and systematic in her work she was the teacher for the place. The advancement of some was rapid. Pieces spoke at the close of the term were well prepared. Whole number of scholars, 4; average attendance, 4. Wages of teacher per month, $16.

DISTRICT No 12.

Prudential Committee, Edwin S. Nelson. First term of eight weeks and second term of ten weeks, taught by Miss Cora B. Gale, one of our best and oldest teachers. All work in this school is done systematically. One of the few schools in town in which reading is taught. Written examinations, map drawing, rhetorical and general exercises form a part of the regular work. No unfavorable criticism could be passed upon either the school or the teacher. Whole number of scholars for the first term, 8; second term, 9. Average attendance, first term, 8; second term, 9. Wages of teacher per month, $19.

DISTRICT No. 13.

Prudential Committee, Miss Nellie Jones. One term of thirteen weeks, taught by Miss Susie A. Smith, a teacher of wide and varied experience in school work. A school of much interest and profit. Management in every respect based upon system. Text-books are used as guides simply. Music, rhetorical, practical and general questions are important features. The amount of collateral knowledge acquired by the scholars is astonishing. Whole number of scholars, 15; average attendance, 14. Wages of teacher per month, $16.

DISTRICT No 14.

Prudential Committee, Harvey M. Conner. One term of ten weeks, taught by Miss May L. Brown. Miss Brown has had charge of this school before and it will be of advantage to the school to secure her services again. Apparently tireless in the school-room. Order maintained without restraint. The scholars were eager to study and eager to recite. Explanations and recitations clearly understood. The school as a whole, under Miss Brown's care have become good readers. Examination of the spelling blanks shows that spelling has not become one of the lost arts. Whole number of scholars, 16; average attendance, 14. Wages of teacher per month, $14.

DISTRICT No. 15.

Prudential Committee, Alvah Foss. One term of twelve weeks, taught by Mrs. Etta M. Gilman. The teacher who first engaged this school gave it up on account of sickness. Although having given up teaching as a business Mrs. Gilman is fully up with the times. So quietly and easily was the school managed that the idea of work was lost sight of. To the teacher and scholars their respective duties seemed pleasant. A good amount of work was accomplished and very thoroughly. Whole number of scholars, 15; average attendance, 13. Wages of teacher per month, $16.

DISTRICT No. 16.

Prudential Committee, Chas. T. Weeks. Summer term of eight weeks and fall term of seven weeks, taught by Miss Olive E. Sanborn. Miss Sanborn possesses a superior education, this, with her natural qualifications and experience make her a successful teacher. In every respect the school was unsurpassed. Whole number of scholars, 11; average attendance, 10. Wages of teacher per month, $15. $16.40.

DISTRICT No. 17.

Prudential Committee, Nehemiah Pulsifer. One term of twelve weeks, taught by Miss Carrie M. Jones. This teacher had no previous experience, yet her school would do credit to an experienced teacher. Recitations and discipline could not be improved upon. General exercises pleasing and valuable. The district securing Miss Jones' services may be sure of a good school. Whole number of scholars, 5; average attendance, 4. Wages of teacher per month, $16.

DISTRICT No. 18.

Prudential Committee, Danforth Cook. Both terms of ten weeks each, taught by Miss Laura A. Ayers. Since Miss Ayers began teaching in the town, she has been known as a successful instructor. The oversight of a school as large as this requires a large amount of care and labor, but the teacher was fully equal to requirements. Very seldom has it been the pleasure of the committee to witness examinations displaying so much interest, talent, and ability as was shown in this school. Excellent scholarship was seen in many instances, showing great advancement and a thorough knowledge of the branches pursued. The department ranked high throughout the terms. The wisdom of engaging the same teacher for a succession of terms, was in this instance very apparent. Whole number of scholars, summer, 37; winter, 45; average attendance, summer, 32; winter, 42. Wages of teacher per month, summer, $24; winter, $28.

GENERAL REMARKS.

With one or two exceptions the schools for the year have been remarkably successful, reflecting credit upon both teachers and scholars. Discipline has been maintained by inspiring respect for the teachers, and by awakening a love for study. The quiet, orderly and polite conduct of the scholars in school and out has met with frequent praise. The committees were fortunate in the selection of teachers. In many districts the same teachers have been employed for two or more terms. No teacher is so well fitted to give satisfaction in any school as that one who has been successful in the same place during a previous term. There is, in the majority of districts, a lack of co-operation on the part of the parents. The best results can be gained only when parents lend their aid to the teachers. For the eight different text-books in arithmetic of the same grade, a uniform series has been exchanged. In the exercise of written spelling, out of an average of a thousand words, twenty scholars have not failed on one word; those scholars who have failed on but one or two, are numerous.

Allow me to return my thanks to the teachers, scholars, and people of the town for the courtesy and kindness invariably shown me during the past year.

Respectfully submitted.

EDWIN G. MOORE, S. S. Committee.
